YELLOWJACKETS TRY FOR WIN

Hardrockers Undermine Eastern's Yellowjackets

By Earl Halvorson

A determined, but badly out-classed band of Yellowjacket gridgers went down to defeat at the hands of the Hardrockers from South Dakota School of Mines last Saturday by the score of 48-6.

EASTERN'S lone tally came in the fourth quarter when Halfback Rudy Firm intercepted a Deney to Smith pass and loped 33 yards to score standing up. A bad pass from center stopped the Hornets' chance of making the extra point.

South Dakota's halfbacks, Welter and Blackwell, combined their talents to score five of the Hardrockers touchdowns. From early in the game there was little doubt as to the outcome. The School of Mines jumped to a 19-0 lead at the end of the first quarter and continued to outclass the 'Jackets for the remainder of the game.

Starting lineups for the game were:

Packey's Patter

By Otis Packwood

It seems that our football team will go to any length to foul me up. The victory I forecasted for the Yellowjackets last week failed to materialize. I'm certain that the reason was none other than a diabolical scheme on the part of our grid squad to foul up the poor sports editor.

When the student body was out to give the football team the send off for the Rapid City game last week, I noticed quite a number of fellows in the gym doing some advance work for basketball. It's nice to see such enthusiasm for the coming court season, but the gym wasn't the place for them at that time. It shall be interesting to see if any of those fellows gripe about school spirit when basketball season comes around. Their complete indifference to our gridiron eleven will come in handy as a reminder that the golden rule is still a pretty fair axiom to follow.

Eastern should win this week. Unless there is an act of God or the Saints learn how to block and tackle, the heretofore venomless stingers of the Hornets shall be deathly to the Carroll foe.

'Til next week when we can all smile again.

With the benefit of one more game under their belt and definite weight advantage, Eastern's winless Hornets enter their third road contest this Friday against the snappy Carroll College Saints at Helena.

After watching the terrific performance of Christianson and Sternhagen, Carroll's scatbacks, against Rocky here last week, the Hornets realize that despite their lack of "beef" Carroll will be tough. Sparked by the running of these two lads, the Saints dumped Rocky 38-20.

The Hornets will again be looking for their first win, and will need a victory to stay in the running for Montana Small College Conference honors.

All week pigskin mentor, Oscar Bjorgum, has worked down the rough spots that showed up in the South Dakota Mines game last Friday. In addition he is working on strong defensive patterns in an effort to bottle up Carroll's wide-open running and passing attack.

Although Bjorgum's boys are bruised and sore from their battering last week, they came out of the game without any serious injuries and should be in top-notch shape this week end.

Following the Carroll fray Friday, the Hornets open a three-game home schedule which will pit them against Butte Mines, Spearfish Teachers and Dickinson Teachers.

HOOP SEASON AHEAD

Basketball practice sessions got under way at Eastern Wednesday under the watchful eye of "Shorty" Alterowitz, head hoop mentor.

Fifty candidates reported for the initial session, and from this array of talent, Alterowitz will choose his '49-50 squad.

With 21 conference games and the possibility of a tournament at Powell, Wyo., during the Christmas week all ready on the schedule, the Hornets face a busy season.

Students contacted for work with Homecoming Committee are expected to service willingly and cooperatively. Remember, Homecoming is for everyone at Eastern.
