Campus Readies For Homecoming

Here is Eastern's 1958 Homecoming Committee that is busy preparing "the best one ever." The committee is made up of student organization members, and headed by Dean of Women Carol Saunders.

MEA CONVENTION OCT. 23-24 . . .

Madrigalians and Brass Choir to Play As Music Department Hosts Educators

Eastern's Madrigalians and Brass Choir will grace the music educators banquet and Eastern's music department will host Montana's music educators as part of the Montana Education Association convention here Oct. 23-24, Dr. G. F. Boyer, music chairman, revealed Wednesday.

The Madrigalians, who will sing "Silver Swan" and other selections, will share honors with the Brass Choir who will play "Capriccio Italien" by Tchaikovsky and "Cadmus and Hermione" by Lully.

Speakers scheduled for the music educators meet include Donald Mail-in, choral director of Mills Publishing, Dr. Earl Kent, a specialist in acoustic properties of musical instruments, and N. W. Hovey, author of instructional texts. Mr. Hovey will conduct a brass clinic Friday afternoon, Oct. 24.

The Madrigalians, under the directorship of Dr. A. F. Humphreys, include sopranos Mary McMurchie, Gloria Palmer, Elissa Phelps, Evelyn Howards, altos Carroll Alstead, Audrey Hagerness, Wilma Burkland, tenors Daniel Hansen, Alvin Quiring, Eddy Neel and basses Ray McBride, Delmar Fired and Arli Schul-

Bonfire, Mystery Mixer Float Parade, Prom Highlights Activities

Colorful Homecoming activities commencing with a convocation Tuesday, Oct. 21 and ending with a float parade, football game and "prom" Saturday, Oct. 25, will provide the excitement for Eastern's students and returning alumni, Sue Thompson, Homecoming chairman, revealed Wednesday.

Tuesday's convocation will be highlighted by a fashion show with Susan Klindt doing the commentary on models Martha Behrent, Ruby Anne Swartz, Noreen Madson, and Myrna Stalnaker, the Homecoming queen candidates, Miss Angeline Ekstrand will supervise the show.

Although classes do not meet Friday, Oct. 24, (MEA convention on campus), there will be lots of activity in the form of an Alumni lunch in the SUB, a bonfire at 7 p.m. and a "mystery mixer" starting at 8 p.m. in the SUB. Two bright spots of the mixer will be the announcement of the Homecoming queen and a faculty skit.

FLOAT PARADE

After standing in chilly semi-dress in local garages Friday, Oct. 24 anxiously awaiting their grand appearance, 14 ornate floats will sweep majestically along North 27th street at 10 a.m. Oct. 25 in Eastern's annual Homecoming parade.

Under the direction of Georgi Andrews and Pete Elliot, each club and class organization on campus was asked to enter a float and their efforts resulted in a 14 float parade.

Although the parade has no definite theme, "anything goes," reported Miss Andrews, "though individual cars are not encouraged." The Queen and other candidates and dignitaries will ride in convertibles.
