Student Pictures Now In Process

Photographing students for the annual will move into high gear next week and continue at least three weeks, Raymond Youdan, photographer for the college annual, announced.

Sign-up sheets will be at the Student Union office where students may choose a favorable time from the following schedule: Tues. and Thurs. mornings, 9-12, and Wed. and Fri. afternoons, 1:30-4:30. Youdan said he will try to accommodate whenever time and film are available.

Seniors will be photographed in cap and gown. Several caps and gowns will be available for their use in the small conference room where the pictures will be taken. Seniors are advised that only a portion of the collar will show under the graduation gown.

Students in the dormitories were photographed before the Thanksgiving vacation. The girls chose to wear sweaters; the men coats and ties.

The annual staff is doing its best to put out a good annual, but we cannot have a complete annual without your picture. We hope that you sign up to have your photograph taken soon.

You Write It, We Stamp It

"It will be two more years, if it does not go through now," declared Marv Kosel, Pen and Rule Club president. The club is backing the bill now in the Montana House of Representatives to make Eastern a liberal arts college.

Everyone is urged to write his congressman. The Pen and Rule club has set up posters and mail-

Get File In Order Now, Soulsby Says

You can do your job hunting right here on campus, A. E. Soulsby, director teacher placement, announced today. Just get your credentials in order in his office and when the superintendents and principals come to Eastern this spring, you'll be first on the list for that job you've been training for all these years.

Soulsby suggests if you graduate in March, June or August, 1959, get your teaching credentials in order now. Drop in at Ad. 105 and get your file going. Soulsby pointed out that students who have their credentials on file should check to see that their class schedules are on file in his office.

Native Montanan Art Prof Starts

Lyndon Pomeroy, Montana State College graduate and a former member of the faculty at Northern Montana College, has joined Eastern's Art department, Miss Isabelle Johnson, chairman of the art department, announced today.

Pomeroy replaces Dr. John F. Dietrich who has been called to Washington, D. C., to head up a Point Four program at Phnom-Penh, Cambodia. Pomeroy, the current state chairman of the Fine Arts division of the Montana Institute of the Arts, studied ceramics with Pete Boulkos, international ceramics award winner and well known Montanan. Miss Johnson indicated that Pomeroy has completed work in ceramics at Montana State College, where he expects to finish an advanced degree this summer. Pomeroy also studied painting under Louis
