You Type It—We Run It Now In Ad Basement

Eastern's stenographic pool, formerly located in Ad. 103, has been moved to the basement of that building, M. E. Johnson, business manager, announced this week. The steno pool, which has in the past handled both stenographic work and machine work, will now handle only machine work, Johnson said.

Each department will be responsible for having masters and stencils cut and proof read before submitting them to the machine operators for processing, he said. Student help for typing may be obtained through the placement office, or students already serving any department may continue in this capacity, he added.

He said bulk mailings should be addressed and bundled, ready for mailing, by respective departments. The actual mailing, however, will be done by the Information Office. Each department must provide the funds to cover the postage. This is to be done by placing a requisition for a check to be made payable to the Postmaster.

UCCF Hears Talk On Missionaries

Dave Williams Jr., a Methodist Field Worker in the Student Volunteer Movement, spoke on his experiences in the Philippine Islands, the challenge of Christian missions, and opportunities in missionary service, in the SUB Sunday Annie Larson stated, President of UCCF.

Williams, a 1955 graduate of the University of Illinois, majored in Agriculture. He said, "There are many opportunities for students in any field in the missionary service." Students in Business, Agriculture, Education, Medicine, Technical and Industrial Work and many other fields are greatly needed at home and abroad.

Eastern students interested in the Student Volunteer Movement can contact the local Board of Missions or their local church to get the necessary information, Williams concluded.
