SOUNDING OFF

By MARGARET LATHROP

"Look with joy for the many benefits that come with the new school system."

It was a feeling of nostalgia that permeated the air as the new school system was officially opened. The old town hall, which had served the community for over 100 years, was replaced by a new, state-of-the-art facility.

Among the problems that the new system is facing is the issue of overcrowding. Several parents have expressed concern that the new school is not large enough to accommodate all of the students.

Joan Newell, a member of the city council, said, "We are proud of our new school system. But we need to address the issue of overcrowding." She added that efforts are being made to address this problem.

The new school system is expected to be fully operational by the fall.

Results of Jaycees Community Survey

Residents of the Baker Community were asked to participate in a survey conducted by the Jaycees. The survey aimed to gauge public opinion regarding various issues facing the community.

The survey found that the majority of respondents were satisfied with the city’s services, but there were concerns about the high cost of living and the lack of affordable housing.

Other issues on the questionnaire included public safety, education, and community events. The majority of respondents felt that the police and fire departments were doing a good job.

The survey results will be used to guide the Jaycees in planning future events and activities.

Check For Wheat Streak MOS

Farmers who have winter wheat growing in their fields should check for wheat streak MOS, a disease that can cause significant yield losses.

Wheat streak MOS appears in the fall, when the crop is young. It is usually detected by early spring, before the wheat is planted.

Be sure to check the wheat for symptoms of the disease, such as yellowing of the leaves or stunting of the plants. If present, the disease can be controlled with fungicides.
