

Tom Connor Honored By Grange

By Joan Marie Connor

Past Master Tom Connor was presented with a past master's pin at the Melrose Grange meeting last week. While making the presentation, executive committee member Joe Buyan paid tribute to Connor's leadership during the past two years.

Christmas giving occupied much of the meeting. Donations were sent to charitable agencies. Members brought clothes and personal items for the Montana State Hospital Grange project and "Gifts With a Lift" program. Jams and fruits were collected for the Soroptimist Home for children, and toys and puzzles will be sent to the Montana State Training School. Reading material for the state and local hospitals and institutions was donated.

A New Year's Eve card party was planned. Special committee members are Mr. and Mrs. John Pettengill, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Belden, Tom Connor, and Wilbur-etta Reynolds. More details of the party will be announced later.

Community service chairman Tom Connor reported that he, Virgil Taylor, and John Pettengill had assembled and hung the folding door in the school auditorium. They will be varnished during the school holidays when the building is not in use.

Health chairman Helen Buyan reported Grange assistance would be needed for the audio-meter tests at the school later in the year.

Frank Padrotti was re-admitted to the Melrose Grange.

During the program Wilburetta Reynolds read a letter urging Congressmen to uphold the Constitution and remember their oath of office. Pearl McCullough read "The Town of Don't You Worry" and Anna Taylor read "The Vanished Friend." Florence Goody told an amusing anecdote. Helen Buyan outlined ten easy steps to raise a delinquent. Joan Marie Connor amused the group with "Nine Nights A-Gnawing," "Today's Thought" by Glayds Evans completed the program.
