The Rev. Harry Whiting. This man was worse than the devil. He had been cursed by a witch. No one was safe from his forecasts of ruin, and he held out that the only way to save the world was to kill every woman. The town was scared by his prophecies, and the men had gathered to hear him. He had predicted that the next day would bring the end of the world, and they were all waiting for it. But the day passed without anything happening, and the townspeople began to feel that the man was crazy.

Practical Rhetoric.

If you want to be a successful speaker, practice your delivery. It is not enough to know the subject matter; you must also be able to express it clearly and convincingly. Practice your delivery in front of a mirror, and try to make eye contact with the audience.

One Vote Counts as Much as Eight.

For almost a century, the United States has had a system of proportional representation, which gives each state a certain number of electoral votes based on its population. If a candidate wins a majority of the vote in a state, they get all the electoral votes for that state. If no candidate wins a majority, the electoral votes are divided among the candidates based on the percentage of the vote they received.
